Product Description

Geely Xingyue I Dashboard Wire Harness

Geely Xingyue L dashboard wire harness has the following characteristics:

Advantages:

1. It adopts high-quality wire material and has good electrical conductivity and wear resistance, which can ensure the stability and accuracy of signal transmission.
2. Reasonable wiring harness layout and protection design can effectively reduce electromagnetic interference and improve the accuracy and reliability of dashboard display.

Principle:

Various sensors and control units of the vehicle are connected to the dashboard through wires to transmit electrical signals and realize the transmission of data and instructions.

Technology:

1. Advanced wire harness manufacturing processes, such as stranded wire, shielding and other technologies, are used to ensure the quality of signal transmission.
2. Waterproof, dustproof and high temperature resistant protective materials are used to adapt to the complex working environment of the vehicle.

Workmanship:

1. The connector of the wire is firmly connected and has good contact, reducing the contact resistance and signal loss.
2. The wiring harness is neat, compact and reliable, so as to avoid shaking and friction in the driving of the vehicle.

Features:

1. The length and direction of the harness are precisely designed to perfectly match the internal structure of the vehicle and do not affect the installation and operation of other components.
2. It has a clear identification and number, which is convenient for identification and operation during installation and maintenance.

Function:

1. The electrical signal of key information such as vehicle speed, speed, fuel volume and water temperature is transmitted, so that the dashboard can accurately display the running status of the vehicle.
2. Receive instructions from the vehicle control system, such as fault prompts, warning light control, etc., to ensure the normal operation and safety tips of the vehicle
